

John Hall's ALASKA

2023

ALASKA • YUKON • CANADIAN ROCKIES

Dear Friends of Alaska,

It is with great excitement to once again showcase Alaska's beautiful four seasons. Our first trip in 1983 took 31 days and traveled along the Alaska Marine Highway from Seattle to Prince Rupert, Ketchikan, Juneau, and Skagway. During these unforgettable days, the merchants in southeast Alaska's port cities only displayed Alaska-made products and guests experienced the real Southeast Alaska! From Skagway we visited Whitehorse, Yukon Territory, Destruction Bay, Tok, Fairbanks, Denali National Park, Anchorage, Homer, Valdez, and back through the Canadian Rockies, visiting Banff, Jasper, and Calgary before returning to Minnesota.

After 40 years, John Hall's Alaska still prides itself on remaining true to its roots and foundation. Our tours still follow these same routes sharing the real Alaska with our guests, and doing what we do best - small group explorations focused on quality and unique experiences.

With the slowdown brought on by the pandemic (minimal operations in 2020, successfully resuming them in 2021, and recovery in 2022), the Hall family took time to plan amazing next steps for the company's future and for guests. And with travel open again, John Hall's Alaska returns in 2023 offering luxury and inclusive land, motorcoach, and privately chartered vessels incorporated in guided tour packages throughout Alaska. The focus remains strong on providing cultural and native tourism experiences, visiting unique Alaska locations, remote towns, and villages, exploring minimally accessible places such as several of Alaska's national parks, and hosting guests we value as a family.

Our Platinum Inside Passage Experience in Southeast Alaska is available only to our guests. We've chartered a 40-passenger vessel to take guests into Glacier Bay National Park, Icy Strait Point, Juneau, and Skagway by day, and by night, the package features two nights in historic Sitka and 4 nights in the capital city of Juneau - hotel and meal costs included.

Another southeast option is our eight-night package featuring one night in Sitka and seven nights aboard the 49-passenger Admiralty Dream, privately chartered exclusively for John Hall's Alaska guests. This option includes an outside stateroom, meals, and unbelievable scenery and marine life. Sailings visit Tracy Arm Fjord, Wrangell, Fredrick Sound, Glacier Bay National Park, Icy Strait Point, and Sitka.

Please join the John Hall Family in 2023 and discover what few have experienced in Alaska. We absolutely welcome you into our family and promise you the Best Alaska Ever!

From our family to yours,

John S. Hall, Sr.

WHAT IS JOHN HALL'S ALASKA?

ALASKA IS OUR PASSION

We can make it yours too - spring, summer, fall, and winter. We take our love for real, authentic Alaska, add in nature's goodness, and give you only the best. A small, family-owned and operated company built from the ground up, John Hall's Alaska has been leading guests - exploring, loving, and sharing Alaska - on small group inclusive explorations for decades. By the end of each tour, our guests feel like family to us, and our hope is that you feel like it, too.

ELEVATING YOUR EXPERIENCE

Quality experiences - large and small - set us apart. Quality in service, knowledge, lodging, activities, transportation, and the ability to take guests to places few ever see. Nobody does it better. Behind-the-scenes access, personal attention, exclusive activities, remote locations, immersive cultural experiences, and one-on-one engagement in local communities are some of the many benefits of small group travel with John Hall's Alaska.

OUR VALUES

After 40 successful years, we continue to follow the same philosophies that have been important to generations of the Hall family. Trust that you can travel with confidence and a promise, that our Alaska, gives more than ever expected.

Customer Service - From your first contact until after departing your tour, we expertly handle your journey and are there for you every step of the way.

Quality - No matter the capacity, each of our partners is handpicked for their high level of service and the quality of their product where we travel.

Integrity - It comes from within, and as John Hall, Sr. puts it, "Do what is right, even when no one else is watching you."

Empathy - The effort spent preparing you for your travels and understanding your desires and challenges help us better provide for your time in Alaska.

Ethics - We operate on a high standard and what we expect of ourselves, we also expect from our partners.

Etiquette - It may seem old school, but manners still matter. Everyone on our team is expected to mind their manners and act appropriately.

NEW IN 2023 BLACK LABEL EXPERIENCE

LIFE IS MEASURED IN MOMENTS LIKE THESE

With smaller groups, comes a more boutique and deeper Alaska experience. Going places, like to a remote Inuit village in the Gates of the Arctic National Park and mingling with the locals, or embarking on a flightseeing escapade to view Kodiak bears in the Kodiak Wildlife Reserve, simply is not possible with a larger group. For travelers with a desire to encounter Alaska at its most authentic and meaningful level, John Hall's Alaska's Black Label-style experience offers exclusive travel unlike any other. And, fewer travelers in your group mean increased one-on-one time with your private guide and in a luxury ride. An invaluable difference on a top-of-the-line premium tour.

John Hall's Alaska continues to have the newest and most well-appointed motorcoach fleet across Alaska - enhancements with even more amenities to increase your comfort are something you can count on. They were key from the start and will be in the future. When you hit the road, there is room to roam on spacious luxury motorcoaches - wider aisles, extended leg room, roomier seats, beverage galley, a private restroom, and charging outlets in every seat so your camera is always ready to catch unexpected moments. The finest and most comfortable on the roads of Alaska, top-notch all the way.

GO BEYOND THE IMAGINABLE

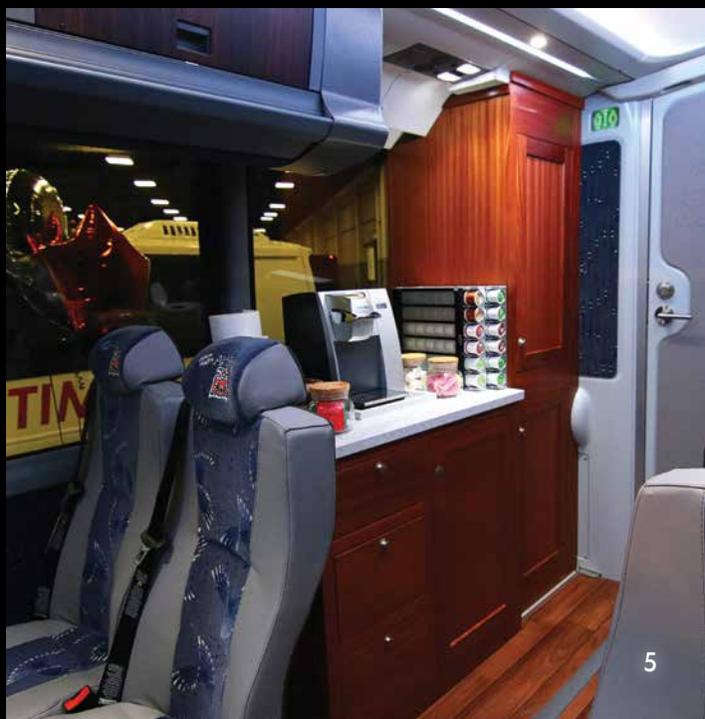

Fabulous as each is, the smaller the guest count the more premium the tour. Examples of two John Hall's Alaska tours that upgrade your small group options cap out at 28 guests or less - National Parks of Alaska, and Alaska Bears & Bering Sea. Choose an Alaska experience unique to the market and unlike anything else available.

National Parks of Alaska

With visits to six of Alaska's eight national parks and four out of five regions in the state, this 14-day inclusive tour covers more of Alaska than any other and has room for only 26 lucky guests.

Alaska Bears & Bering Sea

A dream tour for bear enthusiasts - grizzlies, black, and Kodiak bears. From the Mat-Su Valley and Denali National Park to the Bering Sea, this 11-day tour caps out at 24 guests.

SMALL GROUP DISCOVERIES

EXPERIENCE THE REAL ALASKA

Designed as inclusive and immersive explorations, a John Hall's Alaska package is the ultimate small group experience. Guided by local naturalists and experts, our Real Alaska has you a stone's throw away - viewing wildlife, dog sledding, gold panning, and flightseeing throughout Alaska! Exclusive relationships with local families and partners provide an intimate portrait bringing you closer to Alaska traditions. Journeys rich in culture, exclusive behind-the-scenes access, colorful characters, delicious cuisine, and striking vistas - that linger in your heart long after you return home.

INTIMATE EXPLORATIONS

Small groups make your entire experience more intimate - attentive service, exclusive activities, authentic encounters, and personal engagement in local communities. Something mega-operators can only dream of. By capping each departure to a maximum of 24-40 guests (depending on the tour), the emphasis is on our guests and providing the very best experience. And the bonus, you get better acquainted and share more laughs with your fellow travelers.

EXCLUSIVE ACCESS TO HIGHLIGHTS

Whenever possible we charter wildlife and glacier expeditions exclusive to our group, where everyone gets a front-row seat! Guests enjoy exclusive lectures and hands-on demonstrations that groups of 100 or more cannot experience. Privately chartered excursions by small boats and lightweight aircraft provide access to remote national parks - in fact, John Hall's Alaska visits more national parks than any other tour company!

MODES OF TRANSPORTATION

With only eleven highways in the state, 82% of Alaska's communities are inaccessible by road, and when you do not have a road, you go by plane or boat. That can pose a challenge for visitors who want access to glaciers, remote communities, or Alaska's outback. Getting around from one location to the next requires a lot of maneuvering, but our team can pull it off without a hitch, and for guests traveling with John Hall's Alaska, it is part of the fun!

To best view Alaska's massive tidewater glaciers and wildlife-rich waters we charter local Alaskan-owned sightseeing boats capable of maneuvering through ice-filled fjords, near sea lion haulouts, and in feeding grounds popular with orcas and humpback whales. On our winter tours, guests enjoy sled dog rides through boreal forests or guided snow machining in Alaska's hills. With trips above the Arctic Circle and to world-famous national parks, there are small plane expeditions. Our tours clearly indicate when plane travel is included on an itinerary, and when it is an enriching option.

LUXURY MOTORCOACHES

When traveling by road, our fleet of custom-built MCI luxury motorcoaches is the best in all of Alaska. Their spacious build features extended legroom, restrooms, flat-screen TVs, surround sound, roomy aisles, Alaska/Yukon libraries, beverage galleys with Keurig coffee makers, and 110v power outlets at every seat for charging your electronics. Plus, our fleet employs the latest in emission-reducing technology.

THE JOHN HALL'S ALASKA TEAM

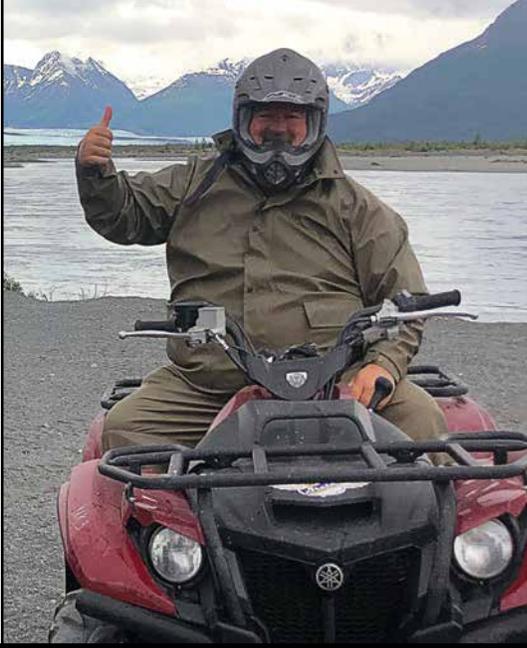

EXPERTS FROM BEGINNING TO END

Team members at John Hall's Alaska are among the best of the best! Just ask our well-traveled guests. Expertise in their field, superior customer service, and passion for what they do all contribute to creating the best possible guest experience - from the moment you reach out to book your tour, during your much-anticipated time in Alaska, and even after returning home.

Our guides live, breathe, and love The Great Land with a spirit that is hard to match. Chosen for their expertise and superior skills, they are scholars and naturalists with extensive knowledge of Native cultures, wildlife, and the ecological patterns that have shaped the landscape. Guides and drivers are empowered to show off their favorite tucked-away places (which larger tour operators may be forced to pass by). A John Hall's Alaska guide even accompanies you on your Platinum Inside Passage or Admiralty Dream experience, providing insider knowledge of Southeast Alaska's ports of call.

And last but not least, doing what we do is not possible without the hard work of our corporate and tour operations teams. Long before a tour departs, they are busy behind the scenes planning, inspecting, and crafting the logistics or helping guests make a dream trip a reality and ensuring they are ready for their big adventure by prepping documents, confirming travel details, and providing helpful customer service so you can relax and travel with confidence.

CUSTOMIZE YOUR EXPERIENCE

John Hall's Alaska experiences are designed to provide the most authentic Alaska travel experience possible. And while our tours include activities, some also feature Pick Your Adventure Days offering a more active choice. Whereas Optional Activities allow guests to customize a tour by purchasing additional activities in some locations.

Most John Hall's Alaska tours feature one or two Pick Your Adventure Days which allow you to preselect your preferred included activity from a list of options that showcase the best of Alaska. Depending on your tour, Adventure Day activities may include:

Our teams both in the office and in the field have a lot of experience and can likely answer any questions you have about optional activities.

ALASKA CULTURE & LIFESTYLE

GREAT EXPECTATIONS

Multifaceted springs to mind when defining Alaska's regions, cultures, and lifestyles and the role they play in the John Hall's Alaska experience. During our forty-plus years of touring and exploring, sharing all that makes Alaska's First People special continues to be a top priority. You should expect nothing less.

We put in the miles covering Alaska's five geographic regions: Far North/Arctic, Interior, Southcentral, Southeast, and Southwest - many of which require access by plane or boat. We do that, too. Aside from the wildlife and beauty, within these regions also lie sacred Native homelands dating back thousands of years.

Iñupiat

Subsisting on what the land provides - fishing, hunting, gathering - the Iñupiat hail from the northern and northwestern Far North/Arctic region. Our guests fly in by small plane, meet locals, and enjoy visits to Native villages, cultural centers, museums, and learning about the heritage of the Iñupiat people.

Dena'ina Athabascan

From Alaska's northern Interior to the shores of Southcentral, the Bering Sea, and into Canada, these migratory and resourceful traders crafted canoes, sleds, and clothing from nature's bounty. Explore a living Athabascan village and Dena'ina encampment, and in winter, visit an Iditarod checkpoint at a local village.

Unangaġ & Sugpiaq (Aleut)

An existence dependent upon the sea, the Aleuts lived in semi-subterranean houses in the Southwest's Aleutian Islands and in Southcentral along Prince William Sound. Forever influenced by the Russians, discover their intriguing history, and explore their homelands on flightseeing trips, bear viewing, and in museums.

Yup'ik & Cup'ik

The traditional ways are passed to younger generations through stories from elders, and shared in cultural centers with guests. The Yup'ik and Cup'ik live a life sustained by the land and sea, and while housing varied, semi-subterranean homes were common in the Southwest and southern reaches of the Far North.

Tlingit, Haida, Tsimshian & Eyak

Their clans have inhabited Alaska's Southeast panhandle for over 10,000 years. Tlingit, Haida, Tsimshian, and Eyak are talented craftspeople known for weaving and carving - baskets, clothing, totems, canoes, and tools. At tribal houses and museums, immerse into the culture through storytelling, totems, dance, and art.

CULTURAL TOURISM PARTNERSHIPS

GIFTS THAT KEEP GIVING

Being a good citizen and giving guests a rich, authentic cultural experience is a top priority and a John Hall's Alaska founding principle. Luckily, we have had the good fortune to build many lasting partnerships working directly with Native communities and businesses to spread cultural awareness and help communities thrive.

PRESERVING CULTURE

John Hall's Alaska has been acknowledged for our continued sustainability efforts in the Alaska tourism industry for supporting local communities and helping to preserve cultures. Cultural partners and experiences around the state include:

- Iñupiat Heritage Center visit and Utqiagvik cultural tour
- Simon Paneak Memorial Museum in Anaktuvuk Pass showcases Nunamiut Eskimo/Iñupiat history
- Iditarod checkpoint - located at a remote Dene/Athabascan village
- Living Athabascan village on a riverboat tour in Fairbanks
- Icy Strait Point - Tlingit cultural storytelling and a dance performance
- Sitka National Historical Park - Tlingit and Haida totems, artifacts, and history
- Doyon Limited operates the Denali National Park bus tours
- Bristol Bay Native Corporation - Katmai Air flightseeing and Brooks Falls visit in Katmai National Park
- Anchorage Museum - over 600 artifacts highlighting Alaska's Native culture
- Huna Tribal House visit in Glacier Bay with traditional art and storytelling
- Carrie M. McLain Memorial Museum and Katirvik Cultural Center visits in Nome
- Visit a Dena'ina Encampment in Talkeetna and learn about their history
- Tlingit dancers perform at the Sheet'ka Kwaan Naa Kahidi Community House in Sitka

A heart of gratitude to the Yees Ku Oo dancers, Shee Atika Tribal Group, and Huna Totem Corporation/Icy Strait Point members for sharing the experience and allowing us to capture images.

NATIONAL PARKS OF ALASKA & CANADA

GO FARTHER, EXPERIENCE MORE

John Hall's Alaska is the only tour company offering itineraries that visit seven of Alaska's eight national parks, plus three celebrated parks in Canada. Learning a bit more about each park may help to narrow down your itinerary choices:

Denali National Park & Preserve

A highlight of Alaska's Interior, in summer, guests spend two days exploring the park, increasing your chance of seeing the elusive Denali, North America's highest mountain peak. Our land tours feature a tour 42 miles into the park in search of Denali's Big Five wildlife, and opportunities for ziplining, flightseeing, ATVing, or whitewater rafting.

Gates of the Arctic National Park & Preserve

In Alaska's Far North region sits a vast landscape surrounded by the peaks and glaciers of the Brooks Range, there are no roads or official trails. The park protects populations of caribou, wolves, bears, Dall sheep, and mountain goats.

Glacier Bay National Park & Preserve

Covering 3.3 million acres of coastline, fjords, rainforest, and mountains, this UNESCO World Heritage Site in Southeast Alaska is home to over 1,000 glaciers. Bear, moose, Dall's sheep, puffins, and other wildlife can be spotted in the park.

Katmai National Park & Preserve

Situated in southwest Alaska, Katmai is known for spectacular bear viewing and the Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes, a notable volcanic basin. It also claims the highest concentration of prehistoric dwellings in North America.

Kenai Fjords National Park

The ice age lingers in South Central, Alaska. The almost 40 glaciers that flow from the Harding Icefield helped to shape this land of constant change and rich ecosystems. Both land and marine wildlife are within sight during your time here.

Lake Clark National Park & Preserve

Turquoise glacial lakes, steaming volcanoes, alpine tundra, rainforests, craggy mountains, and salmon-laden streams. Your only access is by small aircraft or boat, but the varied ecosystem supports almost all Alaska's major wildlife.

Wrangell-St. Elias National Park & Preserve

An International Biosphere Reserve, the park is the largest in the U.S. National Park system and home to three of North America's five tallest peaks. Mount St. Elias stands at 18,008 ft. and is the second-tallest mountain in the U.S.

Banff National Park | Alberta, Canada

Nestled in the heart of the Canadian Rockies, the mountain scenery and bright waters of Lake Louise are a highlight of this UNESCO World Heritage Site. Wildlife such as elk and Stone sheep roam the park's expanse.

Jasper National Park | Alberta, Canada

It is the largest national park in the Alberta Rockies, a UNESCO World Heritage Site, and home to First Nations dating back thousands of years. A highlight, the Icefields Parkway, is one of the world's only icefields accessible by road.

Kluane National Park | Yukon Territory, Canada

Affectionately nicknamed Canada's "gem," this UNESCO World Heritage Site holds one of the largest mosaics of plants and animals in all of Canada. Mount Logan, Canada's highest peak, is only 700 ft shorter than Denali.

ALASKA'S TOP WILDLIFE

ENCOUNTERING WILDLIFE

While sightings of specific species are never guaranteed, John Hall's Alaska visits more national parks and includes a wide range of exclusive activities that surely increase the odds of checking a few sightings off your list!

Depending on your tour, opportunities include: bears catching salmon at Brooks Falls, a Kodiak bear flightseeing trip, or Fortress of the Bear on Baranof Island; marine life viewing in Kenai Fjords National Park, Prince William Sound, Devil's Canyon, Inside Passage, or Stikine River; on a Denali National Park wildlife tour; cruising in Glacier Bay National Park; or on visits to a musk ox farm, or the Alaska Wildlife Conservation Center, Alaska SeaLife Center, Alaska Raptor Center where injured wildlife rehabilitate.

ALASKA'S BIG FIVE

Caribou • Moose • Wolf
Brown Bear • Dall Sheep

To evade predators, Dall Sheep navigate high ridges. Look for moose along roads and feeding near wetlands. Bears prefer coastal shores, salmon streams, and fields of berries.

Migratory caribou frequent the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge and mountains north of Anchorage. The wolf is the most elusive, count yourself lucky!

RAPTORS, PASSERINES & SEABIRDS

Puffin • Ptarmigan • Loon • Bald Eagle
Horned Puffin • Golden Eagle • Kittiwake

The birds are vibrant in Alaska! With nearly 500 species of large and small birds found throughout the state, it is a birders paradise.

MARINE LIFE

Humpback Whale • Sea Lion • Sea Otter
Harbor Seal • Orca • Ringed Seal • Dall's Porpoise

Alaska's waterways are rich with marine life. Keep watch on the horizon for the telltale sign of a whale's blow, Dall's porpoise swimming in the wake of your boat, and playful sea lions, seals, and otters lounging on rocks and bergy bits.

OTHER NOTABLE MAMMALS

Black Bear • Lynx • Muskrat • Beaver
Grey Whale • Beluga Whale • River Otter
Red Fox • Musk Ox • Marmot

No less important are these mammals, commonly seen through our tours in Alaska. Others, can be viewed on prearranged excursions, which we are happy to arrange for you!

LODGE & HOTEL ACCOMMODATIONS

SO MUCH MORE THAN COMFORT

As hosts to our many guests, the lodges we partner with are selected for their consistently high level of service, guest comfort, location, and unique Alaska ambiance, and many are Alaska-owned and operated. Wilderness lodges throughout your tour emphasize natural settings with views of glacier-lined mountain peaks, tumbled rock streams, and quiet marine bays and inlets.

Our guests enjoy priority check-in at each hotel with luggage promptly delivered to your room. With no need to wait around, you are free to relax or go exploring as soon as you arrive. And when it's time to travel on, luggage is picked up for your departure. Hotel gratuities for luggage handling are included in our packages.

CULINARY EXPERIENCES

CELEBRATING ALASKA'S KITCHENS

You will be well-fed on your John Hall's Alaska tour. We put a priority on including quality meals and therefore, we hand-pick (and taste test) your culinary experiences. Food venues range from quirky mom-and-pop establishments and local breweries to traditional American grills and farm-to-table fine dining options.

Our flexible approach to dining (whenever possible), provides guests with multiple options. There are times when you dine with the group, but when a location allows, you may have the freedom to select from several local establishments and in most cases, from the full menu. Plus, you are free to sit where you like and with whom you like.

HOMEMADE, ALASKA-INSPIRED DISHES

In a word, mouthwatering. Nothing beats a delicious meal highlighting the flavors of Alaska. Buttery salmon caught by a local fisherman. Smoked reindeer sausage or a fiery bowl of chili. Freshly baked biscuits drizzled in fireweed honey or lingonberry jam. All are delicious and made from scratch.

Alaska breakfasts are known to be hardy, and lunch and dinner both offer a variety of choices. You will find nothing less on a John Hall's Alaska tour and meals feature options for seafood, meat, and vegetarian preferences. Breakfast, lunch, and dinner are included on each full day of your tour, and one adult beverage (beer, wine, or spirit) is included with dinners.

SPECIAL DIETARY REQUESTS

When booking, please let us know if you have any food allergies or dietary constraints and we will do our very best to accommodate your needs. Food allergies, salt-free, vegan, kosher, and other special dietary meals must always be requested in advance. In some remote areas of Alaska, resources and ingredients can be limited and harder to find. We will work with our partners and do our very best to accommodate your needs.

“The best part of the Grand Slam Alaska was traveling with knowledgeable tour guides and the attention to detail. The places experienced, the places we ate, and the travel on train, boat, and bus were nothing but wonderful!”
- Donna W.
