7 Nome

Situated on the Bering Sea at the tip of the Seward Peninsula, Nome holds the title of being the most famous Gold Rush town in all of Alaska. In the last great gold stampede of the west, fortune seekers flocked from all over the world for the golden nuggets found for miles along the beaches. Nome is also the finish line of the famed Iditarod Race. Learn about this crossroads of history, cultures, and continents on an exclusive tour of the area. Return to Anchorage this evening via a commercial flight.
